

BatchMaster ERP for Pigments/Dyes

Soak your business in dye of success

Positive developments in the end-use industries such as paints and coatings, construction, textiles, automotive and plastic industries have fueled the growth in pigments and dyes industry in the recent times. Technological advancements, increase in consumers' propensity to spend and growing demand for high-performance pigments - which are high on durability and longevity - too have contributed to this growth. At the same time, the growing trend of demand for eco-friendly products, need for adherence to stringent environmental regulations, negating the competition etc. have kept the manufacturers on their toes.

In such times, BatchMaster ERP for Pigments/Dyes has emerged as their strategic partner. It supports different business needs of the pigments and dyes manufacturers such as streamlining their manufacturing process, managing numerous complex formulas, providing ease of new product development, helping meet the regulatory requirements, increasing margins and profitability by effective costing module, assuring 'greener' products and empowering with real-time information for pro-active decision making etc.
